

Research video

In groups discuss the following questions - record your discussion to feedback to the class

In what ways does thinking about the vastness of the universe give you a sense of awe, perspective and help you realise the significance of what really matters?

Does our Earth's isolation and vulnerability make you think about being kinder to other people/ living things on earth (a global kinship)?